LISTENING PRACTICE

COURSEBOOK P.30

■ Ex 1 - 2

Listening 21st

- 1 Listen to an interview with an architect. How many of your ideas for future homes are mentioned?
- 2 Listen again and answer the questions.

According to Dan:

- 1 Why haven't home developers been using organic material?
- 2 Why will it take longer for technology to be a part of our homes?
- 3 What is an example of smart home automation?
- 4 What do people currently use robots at home for?
- 5 How will the houses of the future be energy efficient?

Because they have been thinking about creating homes with cost-efficient and longlasting material.

Because it's expensive.

Turning on the water heater while outside the house/using their smartphone.

To clean the floors.

They will have sensors to reduce energy use in rooms.

USE OF ENGLISH

COURSEBOOK P.30

■ Ex 3

Use of English

- 3 Look at the words below from the interview.
Answer the questions.

definitely probably perhaps possibly certainly

- 1 What are the words used for?
- 2 Are they nouns, adjectives or adverbs?
- 3 What type of words usually come before and after them in a sentence?
- 4 Order the words from 1 to 6, where 1 is least likely to happen and 6 is most likely to happen.
- 5 Can you think of any other similar words?

no doubt without question maybe potentially

Language tip

We use adverbs of probability to show the chances of something happening.

For example:

Houses will definitely be more affordable in the future.

To talk about the chances of something happening

Adverbs

Will usually comes before, infinitive verbs usually come after.

possibly, perhaps, probably, certainly, definitely
