Part 7: Multiple-Choice Reading Comprehension (5 Questions)

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

The rapid pace of technological advancement is reshaping the job market in unexpected ways. While some jobs are being replaced by automation, others are evolving, requiring new skills that didn't exist a decade ago. For example, jobs in AI, robotics, and data science are becoming more in demand, while routine jobs such as cashiers and clerks are seeing a decline. As businesses continue to rely on advanced technology, workers will need to develop new skills and adapt to these changes in order to remain competitive.

Questions:

1. According to the text, what is one job type that is declining due to automation?
 - a) Data scientist
 - b) Cashier
 - c) Robotics technician
2. What do businesses rely on to improve efficiency?
 - a) Traditional methods
 - b) Advanced technology
 - c) Human labor
3. What do workers need to do in order to stay competitive?
 - a) Avoid automation
 - b) Develop new skills
 - c) Stick to old skills
4. Which job sector is expected to grow?
 - a) Retail
 - b) AI and data science
 - c) Clerical work
5. What is the main idea of the passage?
 - a) Technology is decreasing job opportunities
 - b) Technology is changing the types of jobs available
 - c) Workers are resisting new technologies

Part 8: Multiple-Choice Reading Comprehension (3 Questions)

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

The future of work is being influenced by advanced technologies like artificial intelligence and robotics. While these tools can increase efficiency and reduce costs for businesses, they can also lead to challenges for employees. Some workers may find their jobs replaced by machines, while others will be required to upgrade their skills to work alongside new technologies. In the future, we may see more people working in fields like AI programming and robotics maintenance, where human expertise is still essential.

1. What is the potential challenge mentioned in the text for employees?
 - a) Finding new jobs in unrelated fields
 - b) Learning how to work with machines
 - c) Developing business strategies
2. According to the text, which type of work may increase in demand?
 - a) Factory work
 - b) AI programming
 - c) Administrative tasks
3. What is the key takeaway from the passage?
 - a) Machines will replace all human jobs
 - b) Workers need to upgrade their skills to adapt to new technologies
 - c) Only manual jobs will be affected by automation

Instructions:

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

Text:

Robots and AI are rapidly transforming industries such as manufacturing, healthcare, and logistics. In some cases, robots are able to perform tasks more efficiently and accurately than humans, especially in environments where precision is crucial, like in surgery or complex assembly lines. However, the use of robots also presents challenges. For example, there are concerns about the displacement of workers and the need for re-skilling programs. While some jobs may be lost, many experts believe that new roles will be created, especially in fields related to robotics, programming, and maintenance.

Questions:

1. In which industries are robots and AI transforming work?
 - a) Healthcare, logistics, and manufacturing
 - b) Marketing, finance, and education
 - c) Hospitality, retail, and agriculture
2. What is one advantage of robots in the workplace?
 - a) They require less training
 - b) They work faster and more accurately
 - c) They reduce the need for human expertise
3. What is a potential downside to the rise of robots in the workplace?
 - a) Decrease in productivity
 - b) Job displacement
 - c) Increase in worker satisfaction
4. What is the expected outcome of technological advancements on jobs?
 - a) Complete loss of all jobs
 - b) Creation of new job roles
 - c) Decrease in job complexity
5. What type of roles are expected to increase with the rise of robotics and AI?
 - a) Manual labor positions
 - b) Maintenance and programming roles
 - c) Administrative tasks
6. Why are robots particularly useful in certain environments?
 - a) They are less expensive than human labor
 - b) They can work in dangerous conditions
 - c) They are better at performing tasks requiring precision
7. What do experts believe about the future of jobs?
 - a) That no new roles will be created
 - b) That technological advancements will lead to job creation
 - c) That the workforce will only shrink
