Grammar Point # 3 Past Perfect Passive
Example:
The computer had been broken in class last week, so we couldn't use it.
Meaning: Someone or something (unknown in the sentence) had broken the computer before they tried to use it. They couldn't use it because it was broken.
Rule: object + had been + V3 (past participle) + rest of sentence
Usage: We use the past perfect for actions that start and finish in the past. It is used to make it clear that one event happened before another in the past. We use the passive form to describe the actions that have been done to an object in the past when the action is more important than the doer of the action.
Other examples: The school I am attending had been built three years ago. She said the smartphone I lost had been found and given to the police. The house had been lived in by an important businessman for many years before I bought it.
How to change from Active to Passive? You need to remove the subject and bring the object of the sentence to the beginning. Then, write "had the been + past participle".
Example: My mom had made the cake. (Active) The cake had been made. (Passive)

Grammar Point # 3 Past Perfect Passive Q1. Change the underlined sentences into passive. 1. They had solved the problem before the manager arrived. 2. By the time the guests arrived, my mom had already cooked the dinner. 3. They had eaten the cake before the birthday celebration even started. Q2. Choose the correct answers. The car ----□ had repaired ☐ had been repair ☐ had been repaired The concert -----before the audience was informed. had canceled had been cancel had been canceled

Defining and Non-defining Relative Clauses

We can use words such as which, who, where, whose, when to form relative clauses.

Defining relative clauses defines or identifies the noun we are talking about.

Non-defining relative clauses only provide additional information and not essential information about the noun we are talking about

- The person who took my umbrella left it at the reception
- Sarah's dress, which she wore to the party, caught everyone's attention.

In sentences that give essential information, (that) can be used instead of (which or who)

- The house which \that |ack built is now a historical landmark.
- Tom is the person who \that always arrives early for meetings.

However, (that) cannot be used in non-defining relative clauses.

Example:

I found a phone yesterday. Someone must know who it belongs to.

Meaning:

The speaker is stating that they found a phone. They are also making a deduction about the information available about the owner.

Rule:

object + who / which / that + rest of clause + preposition.

Usage:

We use relative clauses to add more information to the subject or object in a sentence. In informal English, we can end the relative clause with a stranded preposition (a preposition that is not followed by its complement – here the complement precedes the preposition). The most common prepositions that end relative clauses are with, for, to and of.

Other examples:

- O Sagr Park, which we frequently go to, is in Ras al Khaimah.
- That's the best way of doing it that I know of.
- Our neighbor's garden, which we often play in, is very beautiful.
- I have some great friends who I like to play with.

Defining and Non-defining Relative Clauses

1. The book	is on the table. (you have many books)
	☐ that I bought yesterday
	🗖 ,that I bought yesterday,
	🗖 who I bought yesterday
2. She is the doc	ctor (there are many doctors)

The students like it when the teacher gives them difficult work.
Rule:	Need
noun phrase + needs + verb phrase gerund (passive) noun phrase + verb phrase + verb phrase gerund (passive)	Enjoy being
Usage:
We use 'need' with verbs in the gerund to express necessity .
We use gerunds in the passive form to emphasize actions that are done to the subj who is doing the action.	ect noun rather than
Other examples:
 The grass needed cutting because it was too long.

In a quiet virtual town, lived a woman (that loved books – ,that loved books, – which loved books). She had a bookstore, where book lovers, bookworms, would come and sit to read. Her books had taken them to virtual worlds where they had lived and interacted with characters and events. Readers would come from all over the country which made her bookstore famous and a safe refuge for those (,who wished to escape reality for a short time. – ,that wished to escape reality for a short time. – who wished to escape reality for a short time.) Each person would choose a spot to sit and enjoy reading. Her books were free. She (would be – would have being – would being) paid by the virtual government on the condition that the readers (had enjoyed – enjoyed – had enjoy) reading and left the bookstore feeling happy. Every morning, her bookstore (need cleaning – needs cleaning – needed cleaning) and restocking with new books and snacks.

One morning, she was arranging the books on shelves and was shocked to discover that a few of her books were not there. She was sure they were discarded on the shelf the night before. They (had stolen - had been stolen - stole) by someone, but she (can't know - couldn't know) because she didn't have security cameras. She called the virtual police and they started investigating.

A month later and the virtual police were nowhere near catching the books thief. It (had been - had be - was) an unfortunate event for every one, however, the bookstore owner (had been - was - had being) not affected and kept her work as usual.

By the time the book fair (opened - had opened - had open) for everyone to (enjoy reading - enjoyed reading - enjoy read) and listening to story tellers, the virtual police (had captured - captured - cad been captured) the thief and returned the books back to its owner.

Read the text then choose the correct answers to complete the missing words.

In an (antique-evolution-device) bookstore nestled in the heart of the city, a (inspire-fond-physical) observer might reflect on the (technical evolution-dimension) of literature. Rows of weathered books, each a portal to another world, seem almost (ambitious – physical- sympathetic) to the passing of time. Yet, as technology advances, a (virtual reality- digital – antique) emerges, introducing a new (inspiration – dimension – ambitious) to the literary landscape.

In this (technical – sympathetic – physical) era, books (personality- transform – inspire) into (interactive – potential – evolution) experiences, offering a (interactive – avatar – digital) escape where readers can become the (avatar- virtual reality – device) of their imagination. A (antique – avatar – device) transports them beyond the (physical – inspiration – evolution) constraints of a page, unlocking the (potential – fond – physical) for immersive storytelling. This ambitious leap into the digital realm doesn't replace the charm of antique tomes but (technical – transform- inspires) a harmonious coexistence of past and future. The evolution of literature takes on a new (personality – evolution – dimension), blending the traditional with the cutting edge, creating a literary landscape that (inspires – digital – reflects) the diverse (inspirations – evolution – dimension) of both worlds.

Writing - Part 3

- \checkmark This is part 3 of the writing exam.
- \checkmark There are two questions in the inference section,
 - o the inference question
 - o and the justification.
- ✓ Students will be presented with a reading text that contains clues that will enable them to make a complex inference about the implicit information in the text.

The skill of inference involves using clues or information provided in a text or situation to draw conclusions or make interpretations that are not explicitly stated. inference enhances critical thinking, reading comprehension, and analytical skills.

- 1. Reading Passages: Provide short passages, stories, or poems and students make educated guesses or predictions about elements not explicitly mentioned. Students should support their inferences with evidence from the text.
- 2. Visual Inference: Show pictures, paintings, or photos without giving any background information. Students infer what might have happened before or after the image was captured. Students explain their reasoning.
- 3. Context Clues: Choose a few unknown words from a text, and students infer their meanings based on the surrounding sentences or paragraphs. This helps students understand how to use context to make inferences.

4. "Dialogue Hnalysis:" Provide dialogues between characters from a story or play. Students infer the relationships, feelings, or motives of the characters based on their conversation.

Inference

This is how the justification part going to be on Swift Assess. You should justify the answer you've written for the complex inference question and provide information from the text to support your answer.

In a quiet virtual town, lived a woman (that loved books – ,that loved books, – which loved books). She had a bookstore, where book lovers, bookworms, would come and sit to read. Her books had taken them to virtual worlds where they had lived and interacted with characters and events. Readers would come from all over the country which made her bookstore famous and a safe refuge for those (,who wished to escape reality for a short time. – ,that wished to escape reality for a short time. – who wished to escape reality for a short time.) Each person would choose a spot to sit and enjoy reading. Her books were free. She (would be – would have being – would being) paid by the virtual government on the condition that the readers (had enjoyed – enjoyed – had enjoy) reading and left the bookstore feeling happy. Every morning, her bookstore (need cleaning – needs cleaning – needed cleaning) and restocking with new books and snacks.

One morning, she was arranging the books on shelves and was shocked to discover that a few of her books were not there. She was sure they were discarded on the shelf the night before. They (had stolen - had been stolen - stole) by someone, but she (can't know - couldn't know - couldn't know) because she didn't have security cameras. She called the virtual police and they started investigating.

A month later and the virtual police were nowhere near catching the books thief. It (had been - had be - was) an unfortunate event for every one, however, the bookstore owner (had been - was - had being) not affected and kept her work as usual.

In an (antique-evolution-device) bookstore nestled in the heart of the city, a (inspire-fond-physical) observer might reflect on the (technical evolution-dimension) of literature. Rows of weathered books, each a portal to another world, seem almost (ambitious – physical- sympathetic) to the passing of time. Yet, as technology advances, a (virtual reality- digital – antique) emerges, introducing a new (inspiration – dimension – ambitious) to the literary landscape.

In this (technical – sympathetic – physical) era, books (personality– transform – inspire) into (interactive – potential – evolution) experiences, offering a (interactive – avatar – digital) escape where readers can become the (avatar– virtual reality – device) of their imagination. A (antique – avatar – device) transports them beyond the (physical – inspiration – evolution) constraints of a page, unlocking the (potential – fond – physical) for immersive storytelling. This ambitious leap into the digital realm doesn't replace the charm of antique tomes but (technical – transform– inspires) a harmonious coexistence of past and future. The evolution of literature takes on a new (personality – evolution – dimension), blending the traditional with the cutting edge, creating a literary landscape that (inspires – digital – reflects) the diverse (inspirations – evolution – dimension) of both worlds.

Inference Activities

Directions: Read each passage and then respond to the questions. Each question will ask you to make a logical inference based on textual details. Explain your answer by referencing the text.

Crack! Thunder struck and rain poured. Max stared blankly out the window, trying to contain his emotions that raged like the weather. He was beginning to lose it. Dropping the kite from his hand, Max broke out into full sobs. His mother comforted him, "There, there, Max. We'll just find something else to do." She began to unpack the picnic basket that was on the counter and offered him a sandwich. Max snapped, "I don't wanna sand-mich!" A flash from the sky lit up the living room. Boom! Mom sighed.

1. Why is Max upset?

Max is upset because he couldn't go on a picnic and play outside due to the weather.

2. Why is your answer to the inference question the best answer?

Max couldn't play outside because "Thunder struck and rain poured", so he dropped "the kite" and his mother told him to "find something else to do".

Inference Activities

Directions: Read each passage and then respond to the questions. Each question will ask you to make a logical inference based on textual details. Explain your answer by referencing the text.

"Tommy!" Mom called out as she walked in the front door. "Tommy," she continued shouting, "I sure could use some help with these groceries. There was still no reply. Mom walked into the kitchen to put the grocery bags down on the counter when she noticed shattered glass from the picture window all over the living room floor and a baseball not far from there. "I'm going to kill you, Tommy!" Mom yelled to herself as she realized that Tommy's shoes were gone.

1. What did Tommy do? Tommy broke the window because he was playing baseball, then he ran away.

2. Why is your answer to the inference question the best answer? When Tommy's mom went to the kitchen, she "noticed shattered glass from the picture window" and a "baseball not far from there" which means that Tommy was playing baseball and accidently broke the window. Then, he ran away as his "shoes were gone".
