Country Fact Files

New Zealand has a population of about 5.5 million people. The official languages spoken there are English and Maori. They also have a special New Zealand sign language for deaf people. The country was discovered in the year 1840 and the size of it is 268,021 square kilometres. New Zealand is popular with visitors; about 3.5 million people visit the country every year.

Canada has a larger population than New Zealand. It has about 37 million people. However, this may be as it is also much bigger. The size of Canada is 9.985 million square kilometres! New Zealand has five international airports whereas Canada has seventeen. Canada was founded in 1867 and about 19.98 million people visit the country every year.

China has a population of 1.379 billion people. This is much more than New Zealand and Canada's population together! China is 9.597 million square kilometres and has over 200 airports. The official language is Mandarin. Over 98.8 million people visit China every year.

Reem's Adventures

Last year, my family and I went to Africa and had a wonderful time seeing the big five animals whilst on a safari. I will never forget this fascinating time in Africa. This year, we went to Iceland.

On day one, we went bathing in the Blue Lagoon; it was very relaxing. On day two, the tour guide did not arrive on time, so my father drove us. We had great fun snowmobiling through the mountains. This was the coolest thing I have ever done in my life.

On the last day of our holiday, we went walking on the glaciers. It was beautiful but this was the coldest day, and I was happy when we got back to the hotel where we were warm again!
