Sarah stood at the edge of the cliff, the wind tugging at her hair. She had always dreamed of coming here, of standing on this very spot. The view was breathtaking, the endless ocean stretching out below her, crashing against the rocks. It felt like time had stopped, and all that mattered was the present moment. Yet, as she looked at the horizon, a feeling of unease crept over her. It wasn't just the height that made her nervous, but the sense that she was at a turning point in her life. She had made so many decisions recently—decisions that had changed the course of her future. But now, standing here, she wondered if she had made the right ones.

Sarah is feeling both awe and uncertainty. She is amazed by the view and the moment, but at the same time, she is uncertain about the decisions she has made in her life. The text states that "a feeling of unease crept over her" and that she wondered if she had made the right decisions, which shows that she is unsure about the future.

Question 2: Justification (3 Marks)

Why do you think Sarah feels this way, according to the text?

Instructions:

- Justify your answer by explaining the reasons Sarah may feel uncertain.
- Use full sentences and refer to specific parts of the text.

Answer (Example):

Sarah feels this way because she is at a turning point in her life.

The text mentions that she has made many decisions recently that have "changed the course of her future," which could be causing her to question whether those decisions were the right ones.

Additionally, the phrase "a feeling of unease crept over her" suggests that her uncertainty comes from not being sure if she made the best choices.

Last weekend, I visited a new park in my city. It was a beautiful, sunny day, and I was excited to see the park because it had a lot of new attractions. The island was quiet, with beautiful beaches and clear blue water. We rented bikes to explore the island and found a small village with traditional houses. The people were very friendly, and they gave us some fresh fruit. One of the most memorable parts of the trip was the hike up to a viewpoint on the island. The view from the top was incredible, with the ocean stretching out as far as we could see.

We took many photos and enjoyed the peacefulness of the place.

In the evenings, we sat on the beach, watching the sunset. The sunsets on the island were the most beautiful I've ever seen. We also enjoyed the local food, which was fresh and delicious.

Volunteering is a great way to help others and make a positive impact on your community. Many people volunteer at local organizations, such as food banks, animal shelters, or schools. Volunteering allows individuals to give back and contribute to causes they care about. In addition to helping others, volunteering can provide personal benefits, such as learning new skills, meeting new people, and gaining work experience.

One of the most rewarding aspects of volunteering is the sense of fulfillment it brings. Knowing that you have helped someone or made a difference in someone's life can be very satisfying. For example, volunteering at a local food bank can provide food to families in need, and helping at an animal shelter can improve the lives of animals looking for new homes.

While volunteering requires time and effort, the benefits it brings often outweigh the challenges. Many volunteers find that their work brings them joy and a sense of purpose.

Additionally, volunteering can help build stronger, more connected communities by encouraging people to work together for a common goal.

If you're looking for ways to make a difference, consider volunteering. There are many opportunities available, and no matter how small your contribution may seem, it can have a big impact.

Questions:

1. What is one personal benefit of volunteering mentioned in the text?

- a) Earning money
- b) Gaining work experience

- c) Traveling

2. According to the text, how does volunteering affect communities?

- a) It makes them less connected
- b) It strengthens and connects them
- c) It makes them more competitive

3. What can be inferred about volunteering from the text?

- b) It requires little effort and is easy
- c) It brings a sense of fulfilment and joy

Model Answers:
