Colorful Mexico

In Mexico, the formal way of greeting each other is by shaking hands. When people meet for the first time, they usually shake hands and say "Mucho gusto". This is a polite way of saying 'Nice to meet you'. Close friends and family members hug and kiss on the cheek. A less formal way, to greet people who know each other, is to simply say, 'Hola'. An informal greeting '¡Qué onda!', is very popular between young people. It means 'What's up?'.

For thousands of years, Mexico's Indians were the only people who lived in Mexico. In the 15th Century, some people from Spain came to live on the same land. Later on, the land was named Mexico.

In Mexico, there are beaches, mountains, deserts, volcanoes and forests. Usually the weather in Mexico is hot and humid. The rainy season is from May to October.

The most popular material for clothes is cotton. Traditionally, men wear trousers a shirt or a t-shirt and sandals called 'huraches'. Women usually wear a skirt and a blouse. The sombrero is a well-known Mexican hat. People wear it to protect themselves from the sun.

A Traditional Mexican fiesta is a festival that celebrates a holiday, such as 'Cinco de Mayo'. People usually celebrate with fireworks, traditional clothing, music, dancing and food.

Read the text about Mexico. For questions 1-5, choose the correct answer True (T), False (F) or Not Given (NG).

1. In Mexico, in formal situations, people shake hands to greet each other.
2. Close family members usually just hug when greeting each other.
3. The weather is always hot and humid.

5. During fiesta people play music and dance.

Sharing with Friends

My name is Ali and I want to tell you about my friends, Akira and Itsuki. They live in Japan, but they travel a lot with their parents. Last month, they came to visit us in Sharjah, and our families had so much fun together.

Akira and Itsuki were very excited to learn about falconry, and I had fun teaching them. We also played football with some of my friends. Akira is quite sporty. He played in his school's football team last year.

I told my father they'd never seen a camel, so he planned a surprise for them. He said that he would take us horse riding, but when we arrived in Khatam Al Shikla, there were camels instead. Akira was so excited, but Itsuki was a little scared. Dad said he didn't have to ride the camel if he didn't want to, but Itsuki decided to try it. He loved it so much, that he didn't want to leave.

On their last day in the UAE, Akira, Itsuki, their mother and father all dressed in traditional Emirati clothes and we took a picture together. Next month, my family will go to Japan and we will see our friends again. I don't know what they will teach us about Japanese culture, but I hope we can take a picture with everyone wearing kimonos.

Kimonos

A kimono is a traditional Japanese item of clothing which means 'thing to wear' in Japanese. It is worn by men, women and children. A kimono has long, wide sleeves. It doesn't have buttons or a zip. You wrap it around your body, and tie it with a special sash called an 'obi', which is tied at the back. You don't wear kimonos with trainers or high heels.

Instead, you have to wear special sandals called 'zori'

In the past, people wore kimonos every day. Nowadays, people rarely wear kimonos in everyday life. However, the kimono is always worn for important festivals and special occasions. Children and teens wear bright colourful kimonos with lots of beautiful designs. Men and married women usually wear darker colours like dark blue, dark green, brown and grey. Their designs are also smaller and simpler. For formal occasions, Japanese people wear dark kimonos with no designs. Red and white are lucky colours and are worn by brides on their wedding day.

People wear heavy silk kimonos in the fall and winter and light kimonos made of cotton or linen in the summer. The colour and designs of kimonos change with the different seasons. For example, in the fall, you might wear a kimono with leaves and colours such as brown, red and dark green. In the summer, you would wear bright colours such as blue and yellow with designs of water and summer grass.
