The Hike

"You mustn't do it alone. The hiking path is small and the area is too dangerous," Grandfather said.

"I think it will be fun," said Saad.

Saad and Ali always wanted to go on the hike together, without their grandfather. "This is one of the best views I have seen. Its even more beautiful than Wadi Shawka," said Ali to Saad. The area was very green because of the rain fall.

Ali didn't forget what their grandfather said, "If you go on your own, take enough water and food. It can be dangerous if you get lost or injured on the hike. Have a meeting point in case one of you gets lost. Look for signs and walk slowly back to where you came from if you think you're lost. Watch where you are going carefully. When it rains, you must follow the signs because the area can get filled up with water very quickly."

Ali knew they would be fine if they followed their grandfather's advice. However, his biggest fear was Saad going off on his own. He stopped thinking and looked to where Saad was supposed to be. He was not there.

Cut Them Down!

The documentary Cut Them Down! is about how forests are being destroyed. It was the best documentary I have ever seen. Although many of the pictures were very sad to see, I believe it is a very interesting documentary to watch. It had lots of new information about the issue that we mustn't avoid. I would advise everyone to watch it because I learned so much from it. I have been reading a lot about the problem recently. That made me think that there was no way to save the forests.

Rainforests are areas of tall, mostly green, trees. They are found in many parts in the world including Africa, Central Asia and Australia. The biggest rainforest in South America is the size of America! Rainforests are humid with high amounts of rainfall. Rainforests are the perfect environment for animals to live in. The weather is quite warm and never too hot or cold.

Rainforests are very important to life on Earth. They can remove some greenhouse gases from the air. This means they help to prevent climate change. The forests also provide us with air, water, food, and some medicines. The trees take in large amounts of CO₂ and create some of the oxygen we need to breathe.

Finally, people are starting to cut down fewer trees compared to how many they did in the past. After watching the documentary, I'm the happiest I have ever been about the issue. Things are changing, and now, I have hope! Companies are going paperless and recycling old products. We mustn't stop here. We must continue to protect our planet.
