Community Connections in the Digital Age

How has the Internet affected our communities in this age of technology? This issue has been hotly debated for many years and there is no one answer to it. While some people argue that the internet has created a sense of disconnection among people and their communities, others believe it has improved communication and brought people closer together. To better understand this issue, I believe it is important to explore both views in depth.

On the one hand, there is a growing concern that the rise of the internet and technology has led people to spend more time indoors. With the easy access to social media and the attractive entertainment platforms, people have become more isolated. Consequently, this has led to a lack of personal connections. As a result, some argue that people are not as close to their local community as they used to be. Even within the same family, parents and their children live in their virtual world most of the time.

On the other hand, the internet and all the modern technological devices like cell phones, computers, laptops and iPads have created great opportunities for people to connect with each other in their communities. Add to this, social media platforms have enabled people to share information about themselves and friends. For example, people can organize events, express their opinions freely and discuss local issues every day. Besides, they have made it easier for individuals to get closer, help and support one another in joy and sorrow with ease. This surely has made a culture of kindness within communities. No one denies that people feel more connected to each other all the time: they are not alone wherever they are as long as they have access to the internet and a mobile phone in their hands.

In conclusion, it is evident (clear) that the internet has both some positive and other negative impacts on all people in our communities. It is an undeniable fact that people cannot live without the internet and the modern technology. Therefore, it is important to balance online and offline interactions to fully benefit from the digital world and enjoy a happier and more comfortable life.

A story about a cultural misunderstanding

Ali and John are online friends. Once, Ali invited John to Bahrain for the holidays. However, they had some misunderstandings due to their cultural differences.

At the airport, Ali welcomed John with a big hug and a kiss on the cheek. John looked shocked but could not react. "You look uncomfortable. Did I do anything wrong?" Ali asked. John said, "In fact, men do not kiss each other in my country". Ali explained that is our way to greet each other. It shows a lot of care and respect. John understood it but said "I won't even think of it".

The other day Ali invited John for dinner with his family. There happened another misunderstanding. Ali's father hugged and introduced him to wife. John greeted her and started to hug her. But she backed off and slapped him in the face. Everybody was embarrassed. Ali took John to a corner and explained that it is not allowed for men to hug women except their wives and mothers. Ali and John had very embarrassing situations, but they became more aware of the cultural differences between them.

A movie review

My favorite film of all the time is Jurassic Park. I have seen it five times. It is a science fiction movie. It first appeared in 1993. The director was Steven Spielberg. The film is just over two hours long.

In the film, Jurassic Park is the name of the theme park placed on an island where millionaire John Hammond plans to exhibit live dinosaurs created out of fossilized DNA. The millionaire invites some scientists and members of his family to go on a sightseeing tour of the park. Unluckily, everything goes wrong when animals escape from their cages, attacks and kill the people. The attack of the dinosaurs turns an enjoyable tour of Jurassic Park into a nightmare for Hammonds' team, his family, and his guests,

I liked the film because the story is very exciting and interesting. The actors are highly skilled and the use of special effects is beyond compare, but I did not like the violent scenes of the film.

The theme of the film is very important. Jurassic Park examines the ethical problem of using science to clone or create life out of dead matter. It shows that it is wrong and dangerous to interfere in nature. I would recommend that movie to all science – fiction fans.

Exam question

The bar chart shows the amount of money spent on two types of electronic items in country X.

Summarise the information in the chart by selecting and reporting the main features. Make comparisons where relevant.

The chart gives information about how much money was spent on computers and smartphones in country X between the years 2011 and 2015.

According to the chart, there were upward trends in spending on both items. Computer sales increased steadily by $5 million each year. Smartphone sales remained level at $10 million until 2013 and then increased dramatically, reaching $45 million dollars in 2015. Although they are still less than the value of computer sales, they are only $5 million behind.

People's total expenditure on these electronic devices rose dramatically in this period. The total was $40 million in 2011 and it rose to $95 million in 2015.

Overall, the sales of both of these items grew, but smartphone sales grew more quickly. If these trends continue, we can expect smartphone sales to overtake computer sales in 2016 or soon after.
