Reading 1: Read the following text and answer the questions below:

VISITING SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco is a place you really must visit if you are ever in the States. Its most famous feature may be the Golden Gate Bridge. Completed in 1937, this is really a beautiful bridge to cycle or walk over, or just view from your car.

One place nearby for a great view of the bridge is the lively Presidio. It is also a great place to spend some time outdoors on a nice day. Go windsurfing, jogging, or just relax in the sun. The palace of fine Arts is worth a visit, too.

No trip to San Francisco is complete without a trip to Alcatraz Island. The highly recommended Alcatraz Tour attracts over one million visitors a year. Do not expect to arrive at pier 41 and find spare tickets, though. Always book ahead.

San Francisco is home to the largest group of Chinese people outside Asia, and many live in Chinatown. It is a great area for walking around. Visit the jade markets and tea shops, and buy souvenirs before enjoying a great meal. If your preference is Italian food then go to North Beach, or "Little Italy". Where you will find the best Italian restaurants and wonderful ice cream.

For some serious shopping, try Union Square. Many department stores are there, it is tourists' favorite, so watch out for the crowds. For more souvenirs shopping and entertainment, there is also Fisherman's Wharf-the number one destination for visitors in the city. Many people say it is just a big tourist trap, and they are right. However, if you like seafood, Scoma's at the Wharf is the best place in the town to eat.

San Francisco is a city where you do not need a car. You can walk or take public transportation everywhere, and there is no better way to learn about the city and its history than taking a guided tour-- good value at just $ 20.

To escape from all noise and people, go to Golden Gate Park. This delightful park includes several great museums and miles of attractive paths to walk, it has over one million trees and includes a Japanese tea garden.

Q1: Fill in the table below with the correct information from the article.

No.	Activities	Place
1.	Go windsurfing.
2.	See some art.

Reading 2: Read the following Online Guide and answer the questions below:

Istanbul

Istanbul is Turkey's biggest city; more than 15 million people live there. It's famous for its rich history, and having many old mosques. It's also the only city in the world that lies in two continents, Europe and Asia.

Istanbul has four seasons. Winter is gloomy and harsh, yet it is a good time for snow lovers to visit. But with an average temperature of 6°C you will be freezing often. Overall, Spring is better when exploring the city, because the weather is perfect, and nature is blooming.

Things to do and see:

1. You have to visit the Grand Dolmabahce Palace, and walk through its various sections. Some of which are made from solid gold!
2. The Grand Bazaar is a shopper's paradise. With over 4000 shops, containing handmade Turkish products and loads of souvenirs.
3. Be sure to visit the Prince's Island. Take a ferry ride there and enjoy the sea breeze.
4. Do not miss seeing the magnificent view from the Galata Tower balconies during sunset.
5. Make sure you try all the traditional and local Turkish foods, like Simit, Baklava, and Doner kebabs.

Istanbul is a popular holiday destination, because it's cheaper than other European cities, but still provides a nice blend between nature and history. However, during summer months, it gets overcrowded with tourists.

Reading 3: Read a short biography about Vincent Van Gogh then answer the questions that follow.

Vincent Van Gogh

Vincent Van Gogh was born on 30th March in a little village in the south of the Netherland. He was the eldest child of a clergyman and had three sisters and two brothers. coming from a respectable middle-class family, Vincent learned to love books and drawing. However, he was not a brilliant student at school. Rather, his talent was displayed in art. His parents realized his gift in this area and admired the careful accuracy of his drawings. This was important to young Vincent.

Vincent's interest in paintings was partly influenced by his uncles, three of whom were art dealers. At 16, he started work at Goupil and Company, an important firm of art dealers. Impressed with his work, his company sent him to work in the London gallery. It was in England that he became distressed by the sight of poverty all around him and the enormous gap between the rich and the poor. He decided that he wanted to help the poor and started reading the Bible to become a priest. His work suffered and he was transferred to the main gallery in Paris. Later, he was dismissed for absence without leave. He had also failed to qualify as a priest.

It was not until 1880, at the age of 27, that Vincent decided to become a professional artist. He spent the next five years developing his artistic talent. He had little money and lived in cheap rooms all over the Netherlands. The death of his father in 1885, shattered him. However, he became more determined than ever to be a successful artist.

Throughout his life, Vincent was poor; often hungry and ill. It was his determination to succeed that kept him going until he collapsed in 1890 at the age of 37. His paintings are colorful, bold and passionate, often constructed with painstaking care over several months. Today, he is perhaps the most famous painter in the world. UNIT 3 - The Media -

Reading 5: Read the following article and answer the questions below:

Technology and Children

Technology has completely changed every aspect of our society over the past few years, from the way we work to the way we socialize and everything in between. One of the differences that have been most noticeable is the change in the way that children play and interact with each other. Although technology does provide many positive benefits for learning, it also can have several negative effects on child development and quality of life.

One of the biggest differences in the way that children live today is that they don't get as much exercise as they used to. This is because technology such as computers, smart phones and television encourage them to be inactive when they get home from school, as opposed to going outside and playing with other kids. Child fatness rates have risen hugely over the past several years.

In addition to not getting enough exercise, many kids do not experience the benefits of spending time outdoors when they are heavily reliant on technology for entertainment purposes. Spending time outdoors has a huge number of positive effects on the body – it provides you with exposure to sunlight, which supplies your body with Vitamin D. Recent research has shown how screens from devices such as tablets and smart phones emit harmful blue light that can cause headaches, eye strain and irritated eyes for children. Furthermore, sleep is also disturbed by harmful blue light when children are exposed to screen time in the evening. This makes it increasingly difficult for child's body to effectively prepare to get ready for a goodnight's sleep.

Technology changes the way kids socialize and interact with others, which can have huge impacts on their mental and emotional well-being. It has now become common knowledge that high levels of social media use in both kids and adults can lower self-esteem and create negative moods. This makes it more difficult for them to develop meaningful relationships with others.

This isn't to say that all technology is bad, or that children should never use technology. Technology provides tons of positive opportunities for learning, entertaining, and socializing, but it should be monitored and used appropriately. Instead of banning technology use altogether, set daily limits for how long children can use technology each day.

Finally, set a good example as a parent. If your kids see you on your phone or computer constantly, they will also want to use technology all the time. Moreover, we have to remember technology is relatively new and long-term studies for the effects to the development of children in the digital age isn't available yet. By putting limits on technology usage, both kids and adults can have peace of mind and get more from the technology that they use.

Q1: Answer the following questions.

1- Why do children get fat faster nowadays than several years back?

2- What is the positive effect of exposing ourselves to sun light?

3- What are the effects of the blue light?

b. Parents must specify time for their kids when using technology. (___)

c. Children imitate their parents' habits regarding the use of technology. (___)

Q3: Match the words with their meaning. There is an extra meaning.

Reading 7: Read the following text and answer the questions below:

Time for Medicine

1.In the early days of medicine doctors didn't know much about treating patients. The Egyptians used strange ways to treat people, for example, they gave their patients' blood from sick lizards or crocodiles, and they told them to eat rotten meat and flies. None of these treatments were effective, of course, and many patients died from the treatment they received.

2.Years later, medical treatment became less deadly but still not so effective. In the 18th century, the medicine man, who was also the barber, made his patients bleed, believing that it cured their disease. Other common treatments were causing the patients to vomit. Surely, this was not always a good thing to do.

3.In the 1800s, operations became very popular. Doctors operated with their bare hands. They wore the same clothes and shoes they wore on the street. The instruments they used were not cleaned or sterilized. The patients who survived these operations, died later on because of the infections their body developed. In fact, the number of people who died in those days was almost 90% of all the patients that were operated on.

4.Imagine how many lives could be saved if doctors only knew more about germs and hygiene. Luckily, during the 20th century, medicine and science have improved a lot, treatments are safer and more effective. Doctors are very educated people and they know how to cure many diseases. We can only hope that new researches will find cures for more illnesses in the future.

Reading 9: Read the following article and answer the following questions:

THE GREAT BARRIER REEF

1. Australia's Great Barrier Reef is one of the world's most outstanding natural wonders. The main part of the Barrier Reef lies some 60 kilometers off the eastern coast of Australia, and it takes 90 minutes by speed boat to reach it.
2. Many cruise companies offer trips to the Reef, and the cost generally includes meals and talks from marine experts as well as snorkeling and scuba diving equipment. For an extra charge, larger tour operators also offer small glass-bottom boats, which provide you with a magnificent glimpse of underwater life without having to get your feet wet. Coral needs plenty of sunlight and grows near the surface, so you may just be satisfied with snorkeling on, or just below, the surface, if you don't want to scuba-dive.
3. If you are not a strong swimmer, take a tour that brings you to a coral island rather than the open sea. There, you can float on the sparkling blue sea and look down on orange and white striped clownfish that swim slowly over the top of the coral.
4. Most of the islands that form the Barrier Reef are covered in rainforest, and many are now national parks. Here you will find colorful butterflies and lizards. Heron Island is particularly well-known for its migrating green turtles, which arrive between November and March and lay their eggs in the sand. They are quite happy to do this even though the beach is very close to human habitation.
5. Finally, 26 of the islands offer accommodation and provide a good alternative to staying on the main land. It means that you are closer to the Reef itself (although it is still a boat journey away), and the islands offer a full range of activities for those wanting to be entertained on land as well as under water.

Q1: Match the following headings with the correct paragraphs. Note that there is an extra heading.

UNIT 6 - Society & Family -

Reading 11: Read the newspaper article, and then answer the questions that follow.

The Smart Way to Live

A Swiss family of four have decided to take part in an experiment in order to test an innovative high-tech house so smart it can even do the shopping.

The lifestyle of the future is being tested to the full in Zurich. A young family has spent a year living in a 'smart house', where the latest technology is being put to the test in a fully automated 'Internet home' known as Future life.

While the man of the house rests on a sofa enjoying the built-in massager, his newspaper is projected onto the wall via the Internet. His wife, who is visiting a friend, makes a mobile phone call to the house to order the cooker to start heating up the evening meal.

Ursi Steiner and her husband Daniel were selected from 70 couples to live in the home with their two children. The house looks after them so well it can even check their health by taking samples to test every time they use the bathroom and warns them if a trip to the doctor is advisable.

Ursi says, "The house looks like a normal house from the outside, which shows that you can have a normal life with top technology- and for me it's simply our home. Technology doesn't control our lives; we direct the technology in the house."

The technology means that they never have to worry if they have left the oven on. They just get the house to check. And if shopping seems like too much of a chore, the house can do that too, by making a shopping list sending it to the nearest supermarket.

"lots of things are much simpler in this house than in my old home, with online shopping, for example, I don't just save time but can avoid the crowds." Says Ursi.

Security is another advantage. The front door, for example, is opened by a fingerprint system, and the entire house can be monitored, even from a distance, by mobile phone.

Despite all the ultra-modern appliances, Ursi admits she misses one thing about her old home – the open fire.

Q1: Decide whether the following statements are true (✓) or false according to the article (×).

1. The Steiner family consists of four members. ()
2. The family's health is checked regularly by the smart home. ()
3. Outside the house looks computerized. ()
4. The house does the shopping for the family. ()
5. The smart house is not safe. ()

UNIT 6 - Society & Family -

Reading 12: Read the following text and answer the following questions:

“Bahraini & Proud”

The kingdom of Bahrain is not just a small group of islands in the middle of the Arabian Gulf. It is God’s heaven on earth. It is the oxygen I breathe to give me power to work hard and continue what my grand grandparents have started.

There are many reasons that make me so proud to belong to this land and its society. First, Bahraini people are well-known for their good manners and values, they are very respectful to all nationalities and they are known for their good hospitality for the Kingdom guests too, tourist and visitors.

Second, family relationship is the most important thing in my society. It is a must for every member in the family to join the family gathering on Friday, where we spend the entire day catching up and enjoying delicious traditional dishes.

Third, Bahrain is a pioneer in many sectors like education and tourism. We have over 130 modern well-equipped schools all over Bahrain. Also, more than a million tourists enter Bahrain yearly to visit our beautiful tourist attractions.

Moreover, every achievement in my society is worth looking back at, and worth being proud of. For example, Amina al-Hawaj, who won many global awards for her inventions in the medical field, is the youngest and first woman inventor in Bahrain. Besides, Walaa AlBaqqali who is a young Bahraini student at Jidhafs Secondary Girls School, won the 3rd place winner of the Arab Reading Challenge.

To sum up, I would like to contribute to the development of my society by studying hard and finding out a cure to diabetes and cancer. I would really like to help people in need and build more shelters for abandoned animals.
