Education is the base of any civilization. It becomes a very vital element in life. Education in Bahrain is changing by the time.

Before oil was discovered education in Bahrain was mainly started with teaching the holy Quraan in houses. The history of the public education system goes back to 1919, when the first school in Bahrain was established. After few years many schools were built for both girls and boys . Teachers used to use black boards and students didn't use to wear uniforms.

Nowadays, there are many developments in this field. Schools are provided with smart boards, technical tools for studying. Moreover there is a website to connect all students and parents. Laboratories are also full of modern equipments that make learning and teaching easier.

The future of education in Bahrain looks rosy. We will use e-books in houses, so there is no need to come to schools. We might attend classes in universities throughout the internet.

In my opinion, I think that education is developing in many ways day by day which will be useful for the new generations.
