Arctic terns are sea birds. In May and June Arctic terns nest on the ground in the Arctic. They feed their chicks on small fish and insects. In September, when the young birds have grown and winter is coming, they begin to fly south. When they reach the Antarctic the southern summer has begun. The birds fish in the sea but they do not land on the snow and ice. In March, when it begins to grow colder and darker, they move north again. Arctic terns fly more than 35,000 kilometres every year to match their life cycle to the changing seasons.

Dentists recommend a new one every three months. If you look after your teeth now, you won't suffer as you grow older.
