- Chopsticks are small, thin sticks that are used for eating in countries such as China and Japan. They are usually made of wood or plastic. Chopsticks were first used in China years ago.
- In Argentina, if you come across some money on the street pick it up because you will get more money.
- In Denmark, they put a flag outside the house to show that someone in that house is having a birthday. They place presents around the birthday child's bed while they are sleeping.
- Do not tell other people about your bad dream when you are eating. If you do, your dream will come true.
- In Hong Kong, special noodles are served for lunch in honor of the birthday child. The noodles are extra-long to symbolize a long life.
- In China, they believe that the baby is one year old when it is born. They think it is unlucky to give someone a clock for a birthday present.
- Some Koreans believe that if you see a magpie, a kind of bird, you will get good news.

C. Read the passage, then answer the questions below.

Today, more and more young people travel abroad and many visit Thailand in Asia. Why? Because it's sunny, the people are friendly and it's different. Kim Walker is in Thailand with her friend, Gill. Here's Kim's diary.

Thursday

It's 5 p.m. and we're on the bus from the airport to a small hotel on the river. The bus is hot and crowded. There are a lot of people; there aren't any seats and our backpacks are very heavy! We're both tired, but we're happy. This is our first visit to Bangkok. There's a lot of traffic outside and I can see bikes, cars and an elephant on the road! Bangkok is a strange city. It's also very sunny, but I can't find my sunglasses.

Saturday

It's raining, so I don't need my sunglasses today. Finally we're at the Safari Park, 100 kilometers from our hotel. The guidebook says: There're dolphin shows, monkey shows and a circus inside. There are different types of restaurants such as Chinese and Indian. I've got my camera in my backpack - I want to take lots of pictures.

Sunday

We haven't got much money so we're on a bus to Koh 'Samui, an island in the South. The bus tickets are very cheap and the bus is full as usual, but this time we have seats. There's an old man in the seat next to us. He's got a radio and there's a football match on. It's very noisy so we can't read or sleep. This is not a good journey!

Monday

We've got a room at a nice hotel with a swimming pool. Luckily they accept bank credit cards! And we can see the beach from our hotel room. The beach is beautiful: just like a dream. The food is great too. At the moment there aren't any people here, but tonight there's a beach party. Later lots of people are coming.

Tuesday

At last we're free. Now, we're in a coffee shop at the MBK mall. We want to buy some gifts for our friends.

Wednesday

It is time to fly back home.
