Part 2: Reading*(34 marks)*A. Read the passage then answer the questions below.

Nathan Taylor is an English teacher. He told his students about something happened to him when he was in school.

Although this story has a happy ending – at least for me – I had never been as scared as I was that day in the intermediate school. I didn't think about that terrible day in a very long time until today.

It all started in history class. The teacher told us a week before that we were going to have a test on Friday. When I walked into the history class I was sure that I would do well because I spent hours studying for the test. After everyone sat down, the teacher passed out the test. "Nothing to worry about. Piece of cake!" I thought after I read through the questions.

A few minutes after we began to take the test, I heard someone calling me, "Nathan, Nathan." It was Sam, the boy who sits next to me all year. I looked at him angrily, but didn't say anything. Just a few days before, my friend Jason got into trouble for talking during a test, and I didn't want the same thing to happen to me. It was getting harder to read and think of the answers because Sam just wouldn't be quiet. Finally, I asked him "What do you want?" "What is the answer for number 6?" he asked. The next thing I knew, the teacher took my test paper and Sam's too. She told us to meet her out in the hall. Well, you can imagine how angry I was! I had never been in trouble my whole life! I felt bad even though I didn't do anything wrong.

Well, even though Sam and I were not close friends before that day, it was the beginning of a long friendship. He told the teacher that I didn't say anything and that I didn't give him any answers. So what happened to me? The teacher gave me my paper back and sent me to finish the test. And Sam? He got a 0 on the test and had to stay after school for a whole month. This wasn't his first time he was in trouble, but I think it was the very last time he ever tried to cheat on a test!
