There are many things changed in Oman from the past to present. Now we live a very good life unlike the past when people had a very difficult life for many reasons. First of all, the services in the past were not good. In the past the health services was very poor. A lot of people and children died because there were no hospitals and doctors. But today the health care is much better. There are about fifty five hospitals in Oman and people can go to see the doctor when they are ill and get medicine. Second, the transportation in Oman in the past was very bad. There were no paved roads and people used to travel on camels and donkeys. But today, people have cars and there are very good roads in Oman. People can also travel by ships and planes. In the past, there were only 3 schools in Oman. Only boys were allowed to go to school. The girls stayed at home.

However, there are many schools in each region. Both boys and girls can go to school and have a good education. In my opinion, life in Oman now is very comfortable and easy than in the past. Thanks to the Sultan Qaboos who tried from the very first moment to build a new future for Oman.

One of the most popular literary figures in American literature is a woman who spent almost half of her long life in China, a country on a continent thousands of miles from the United States. She was born in 1892. In her lifetime she earned this country's most highly acclaimed literary award: the Pulitzer Prize, and also the most prestigious form of literary recognition in the world, the Nobel Prize for Literature. Pearl S. Buck was almost a household word throughout much of her lifetime because of her prolific literary output, which consisted of some eighty - five published works, including several dozen novels, six collections of short stories, fourteen books for children, and more than a dozen works of nonfiction. When she was eighty years old, some twenty - five volumes were awaiting publication. Many of those books were set in China, the land in which she spent so much of her life. Her books and her life served as a bridge between the cultures of the East and the West. As the product of those two cultures she became as she described herself, "mentally bifocal." Her unique background made her into an unusually interesting and versatile human being. As we examine the life of Pearl Buck, we cannot help but be aware that we are in fact meeting three separate people: a wife and mother, an internationally famous writer and a humanitarian and philanthropist. One cannot really get to know Pearl Buck without learning about each of the three. Though honored in her lifetime with the William Dean Howell Medal of the American Academy of Arts and Letters in addition to the Nobel and Pulitzer prizes, Pearl Buck as a total human being, not only a famous author, is a captivating subject of study.

11. What is the author's main purpose in the passage?

12. According to the passage, what didn't Pearl Buck write about?

13. Which award is mentioned first?

14. Why Pearl Buck was an unusual figure in American literature?

15. Why did Pearl Buck describe herself as «mentally bifocal» ?
