READING 1 (Items 1-10)Read the text. Then, complete the tasks.[5M]

As a scientist, I always hope to meet people who care about the environment like I do. However, I must say, it doesn't happen very often!

Take my own family, for example. My daughter looks for the latest fashions in clothes, shoes and handbags; my son spends all his pocket money on computers, video games and mobile phones; and my wife always wants to get new equipment for the kitchen. They don't seem to understand that the more they buy, the more they will throw away -and the more the environment will be polluted.

At least, that's what I thought. However, when I called them together for a family meeting, I got a big surprise. I was going to give them a long lecture about saving the environment. But before I could start, I found out that they were way ahead of me!

First, my wife told me that she was already donating all our old clothes to a charity organisation that distributes them to poor people. Then she asked if she could also give them some old tables and chairs, and of course I agreed!

Then, my son surprised me by inviting me to a re-cycling exhibition at his school. Later, I went there, and was very impressed with the various products created by the students. I even bought a really nice reading lamp made from an old glass bottle.

Now, it's true, I'm still waiting for one family member - my daughter! - to do something for the environment, but two out of three is pretty good, isn't it? So, perhaps there is hope for the world after all.
