Bed racing is one of the most unusual sports. It was originally held to raise funds for charities. The first race was organized by the people in Knaresboroug in the Uk in 1965. It was only for the army and navy. The US Marines also joined the first race. One year later, it was opened for the public. This sport was then spread throughout USA, Germany and New Zealand. Few years later, bed raising sport changed to fun and entertainment purposes.

The first event of the race was only held with four teams. The organizers raised about 300 pounds for the charities. That was because of bad weather in Knaresboroug. The second race was better. Twenty one teams participated in the event and 800 pounds were raised.

In the UK, bed racing competitions between teams take place every June. Each team should consist of six racers plus one on the bed. The beds must be designed with four wheels to help the racers move the bed easily. The teams run and push the beds for about 3km. They must climb up a hill. Then, they must run down towards the Nidd River and cross it. The whole race is about half an hour. However, a fast team can finish the race in about fourteen minutes.

Every year, there is a theme for the race. The teams should decorate their beds according to that theme. The racers are encouraged to dress according to the theme to win prizes. In addition, they must wear protective helmets and life jackets for their safety.
