SUMMARY

There are many obligations as well as rights for any citizen. In addition, there are extra responsibilities, he or she can afford for his country. He can participate in charities, doing volunteer works, donate blood, or even, he or she can participate in the environmental works. To do the volunteer works, he can give some of his time to help the handicap people. Moreover, he or she can help the poor by time or fun. In addition, he can support them in any side of their life.

Those additional responsibilities create a responsible citizen. In case of cooperating from all the citizens, we can hold up our culture, country, and prosperity as well as keep our country's progress in all the fields. We can support our government by funding many non-governmental organizations. Especially in cases of natural disasters. We need the government to support the poor and the survival, but we can give a hand to sustain the governmental efforts.

Sure there is a field of charity, which we can help and participate in. there are many successful examples round the world as well as within Oman. They started with very little efforts and later, they could set up great charities and organizations, as well as they could sustain their countries. We can support those successful Omani characters or even, we can set up our support for our country. We can keep the environment clean. In addition, we can cooperate with our mates to clean the street or our school. Moreover, we can decorate our schools, houses, blocks, streets, and public places. We can give a great picture of our country and environment. We can start buy identifying our roles as well as our responsibilities and raising the awareness among the whole society. Later we can notice what our country need. In addition, inspire more people to cooperate. Finally, we prepare plans and start doing them. It is not a difficult process. We can privilege our country great achievements with our free time and efforts. Our national awareness is the start.

I conclusion, there is government which can raise the country by itself. There must be a support from its citizens as well as the cooperation from all its parts of the society. We should be responsible citizens. Otherwise, we would never see our country progress or create a shining future for our children.
