Analyzing Evaluative Writing

Session 1

01

Deconstruct a model evaluative essay to identify its key structural elements

02

Categorize linking words and phrases to show opinion, contrast, adding ideas, etc.

03

Analyze a sample evaluative essay to highlight its components.

Evaluative writing Instructions:

1. Read the instructions carefully to understand what you are going to write about.
2. Decide if you agree or disagree.
3. Brainstorm your ideas and reasons.
4. Write introduction, 2-3 bodies, conclusion.
5. Use present tense and linking words.
6. Check your spelling, grammar, punctuation, spaces between paragraphs.

Introduction

1. General statement : Introduce the topic (Qs, Quote, definition).

Example: It is said that “statement about the topic”

2. Opposing view: State what other people think.

Example: Some people think/ believe that (the opposite)

3. Your Opinion (Thesis): Clearly state your opinion.

Example: However, from my point of view, (your opinion) for the following reasons.

Introduction

“Online shopping is better than in-store shopping”

Nowadays, it is said that online shopping has become an important part of our lives. Some people think that buying from traditional stores is a waste of time and effort. However, from my point of view, in-store shopping is still the best choice for the following reasons.

General statement

Opposing view

Your opinion

Body paragraph

1. Topic sentence : Introduce your first reason.

Example: First of all, (main reason).

2. Supporting Explanation: Explain your ideas in more detail.

Example: That is to say, (explain why and how)

3. Examples/ results: Give a real Example or a result.

Example: For instance, (give an example).

Example: As a result, (give a result).

Body Paragraph

“Online shopping is better than in-store shopping”

First of all, in-store shopping allows customers to check product quality directly. That is to say, buyers can touch the items and try clothes before spending their money. As a result, they avoid buying the wrong sizes or poor-quality items.

Conclusion

1. Concluding Transition : Signal the end of your essay.

Example: To sum up, /In conclusion, /Overall,

2. Summary/ Restate Opinion: Restate your opinion in different words.

Example: Although some prefer (opposite view), I still believe that (your opinion) because of (your reasons)

3. Final Thought: give Advice or recommendation.

Example: Therefore, people should (give advice or recommendation).

Conclusion

“Online shopping is better than in-store shopping”

To sum up, although online shopping is fast, I still believe that in-store shopping is the best choice because it guarantees product quality and offers bargaining chances. Therefore, buyers should visit real stores when shopping.

Advertisements can be sometimes misleading

Nowadays, advertisements play a huge role in our daily buying decisions. Some people believe that commercial ads always provide useful and honest information. However, in my opinion, advertisements can often be misleading for several reasons.

To begin with, many ads exaggerate product benefits to attract customers. In other words, companies show their items in a way that looks much better than reality. For example, fast-food ads usually display big, delicious burgers, but the real food looks completely different and smaller.

In addition, sponsored ads use social media influencers to make products seem perfect. That is to say, famous people promote items just because they get paid, not because the products actually work. For example, many teenagers buy skincare products recommended by influencers, only to suffer from skin problems later.

In conclusion, although advertisements help us discover new products, I still believe they can be very misleading.

Therefore, shoppers should be careful and research items well before spending their money.
