Dear Ali,

I have some great news. I won a writing competition at school! It was a short story competition. I won the first prize. My story was called "The Lost Key," and it was about a girl who goes on a fun adventure to find a key that opens a special box.

I had a lot of fun writing it, and I'm really happy with how it turned out. My English teacher was really helpful in teaching me how to write better. It took me about a week to write the story, but his help really made a difference. As a prize, I won a gift card to a bookstore. I was thinking that maybe we could meet up next Saturday and go to the bookstore together. We can look for some new books. Let me know what you think.

Take care,

Hamdan
