At around midnight, Ali and I were walking back home from a supermarket. In the middle of the road, we noticed a suspicious move in front of a jewellery shop. We hid behind a car to see what was happening. There were three men trying to break the door of a jewelry shop. We wanted to stop them. So, I suggested to Ali that we should phone the police. He said "No" because he thought the thieves might escape before the police arrive. Ali said that it would be better if we throw stones toward them so that the thieves would be scarred and run. However, the theft was very fast and the thieves could run away with the stolen jewellery before we could do anything. We felt sad and went home. I told my father about the story. He said that we need not worry and the police would catch the thieves. Fortunately, the street video cameras had recorded the thieves so the police could catch them easily. We felt very happy about that.

Our story today is about a yacht called Kaz . Derek Batten was the owner of the yacht. Derek planned for a voyage from north to west Australia. He invited with him his two neighbours Peter and James. The yacht left the port on the Whitsundays coast on April 15 2007. The weather was windy and the sea was rough. After three days some fishermen saw the yacht and called a rescue team. The team caught up with the yacht and boarded it. There was no one on the board of the yacht. All the crew were missing. After searching the team found the yacht in a good condition, and the engine was still working. Only the yacht's sails were badly damaged. They found a plate of food was set on the table and a laptop was left turned. Also the life jackets were there too. The last moments of the men were recorded on a video tape by James .The video showed Derek directing the yacht. Peter was fishing in a very relaxing manner. A wide search was done for five days, but unfortunately no sign of the men was ever found.

It was during a short vacation that my parents decided we would go to the zoo. We went to the London Zoo. We first bought the ticket and entered. While entering, the guard strictly told us that we should not feed any animals. We took a whole tour of the zoo slowly. We then moved to see birds. It was really a wonderful experience as we saw many different kinds of birds. They were all kept in different cages and each of them had beautiful feathers and made lots of different noises. Some of them were flying in the cage. The peacock was the most beautiful bird and we were lucky to see the opened tail of the peacock. It was very beautiful. We then saw the aquarium collection that had different kinds of fishes. Very tiny to big fishes were collected there and all of them were very beautiful to see. After walking around for the entire day and seeing so many animals and birds, we were very tired, but I was equally excited and happy. We had a wonderful trip visiting the zoo and I would cherish the nice time we spent there.
