People have lived on the planet for centuries, and during this time many events have happened. Human intelligence has created several things, many of them have helped humanity in several ways. Inventions such as vaccine and medicine save thousands of people. The printing press has allowed us to share more knowledge. The transportation has helped us to move around and trade with other countries. Technology like the world wide web has shortened distance in communication and informs us in seconds of events worldwide. However not all inventions are positive. Some discoveries, like the technology used for war like nuclear weapon, chemicals and biological bombs are extremely dangerous and might lead to humans' extinction. Also, some industries cause high level of air pollution through releasing carbon dioxide into the atmosphere besides producing toxic chemicals. Moreover, some activities such as producing food and using plastic are destroying our planet slowly. As a result of these activities, we hear about hundreds of plants and animals' species that are endangered. We need to take responsibility for the actions that affect our planet. Communication and cultural awareness are the most effective ways to deliver the message.
