READING 1

Directions: Read the following then answer questions 9 to 12.

1. Today it is more important than ever to ensure that we take enough breaks and holidays. Life is so fast and we spend such a large part of our time working hard that we really need to take sufficient time out. If we don't, the pressure of life can affect both our physical and mental health.
2. The stress of modern life can cause severe problems. It can cause high blood pressure, which can then cause stroke and heart attacks. It also has an effect on our minds and we become unable to make good judgements. If we are always on the move, we don't always notice how far we push our bodies. We don't eat regular meals and we don't get enough sleep. Similarly, our free time is often interrupted by phone calls. The human body cannot continue like this indefinitely. Both brain and body need a break. If we push them too far, they will eventually let us down.
3. There are more and more "workaholics" these days who think that their work is too important to leave in the hands of others. These people cannot bear to be away from the office for more than a few hours. They put off taking holidays or breaks because there is always a deadline or another deal around the corner. They often discover too late that there is no more to life than work.
4. People like this risk hurting not only their health, but their personal relationships too. Everybody needs to spend time with family or friends, and this time needs to be more than the occasional snatched hour here or there. People who are close to us need to know that we genuinely care about them. Giving them a substantial amount of our time is how we show this. Holiday time can give us this opportunity.
5. Holidays are important for everyone, not just the businessman. We all need a change of scene and a change of pace. We need to relax and take our minds off work, school, the house, or whatever problems are worrying us at the time. We can choose to spend this time lying on a beach, trekking through rainforests, go camping with friends or family, or simply sightseeing. What is important is the change. A change of routing often helps us to look at our own lives in a different way. Holidays are crucial for our general wellbeing. And leaving the mobile switched off for some time, that is important too!

9 Which of the following could be the BEST title for the text?

- Why Holidays Are So Important
- Time to Start New Family Life
- Best Free Time Activities
- What Stress Can Do

10 Read the following from paragraph (4).

“Giving them a substantial amount of our time is how we show this. Holiday time can give us this opportunity.”

What does the underlined expression “substantial” MOST LIKELY mean?

- slight
- unfair
- irregular
- significant

11 What does the writer mean in paragraph (5) by saying, “What is important is the change”?

- Change can cost people their careers.
- A change can do people a lot of good.
- It is good to change jobs once in a while.
- People should change their holiday destination.

READING 2

Directions: Read the following then answer questions 9 to 12.

1. In August 2000, Tariq Al-Hassan decided to take a break from work and see the world. By that time, none of his family had ever travelled beyond the Gulf. Tariq, a forty-year-old Omani businessman, believed that travelling to foreign countries and meeting new people would be a good and interesting way to learn more about the world and improve the mind.
2. On the 1st of October, Tariq started his journey with a flight from Muscat to London. He planned to spend two weeks in England and Scotland, about the same time in the rest of Europe and fly back home at the end of the month. He was particularly keen to see Switzerland and Paris because he had seen beautiful pictures of the Alps mountains and the Eiffel Tower and also because he wanted to expand his business in Paris. On the 13th of October, Tariq was already home. Why did he have to cut short his holiday?
3. Tariq found that travelling abroad was not so easy! He had to face a number of problems on his trip. First of all, he hired a car but was utterly confused about driving on the left in England! Secondly, he found it impossible to manage without knowing any French in the smaller cities of France. He also missed his family terribly and was homesick for most of the time. And most importantly, he was not prepared at all for the bitter cold, especially in Scotland.
4. A few weeks after his return, he was talking to Andy and Sam, his Australian and British colleagues. "I am sure most people from my country face the same problems when they travel," he said. "There should be some solution." Andy's reply made him think. "Well, why don't you use your experience to help them?"
5. On the 4th of January 2007, Tariq started a new division in his business – the Happy Tourist Travel Agency. The agency began with just two people helping employees of Tariq's company plan holidays abroad – the best flights, where to stay, what kind of clothes to take, how much money they would need and most importantly, basic words and phrases they would need in the countries they were visiting.
6. Within six months, people from outside the company wanted the agency to help them. In June 2009, Happy Tourist Travel Agency became an independent travel services company, one of the largest in Oman. Today, it is a thriving and flourishing multi-million-dollar group with branches in Dubai, Kuwait City, Cairo, Manama and Doha. The main focus is still on travel services, but they also train people in English and other foreign languages. And all this, the result of one man's difficulty when he travelled abroad!

Do not write below this line.

9 What is the above text MOSTLY about?

- how to cope with culture and language barriers in Europe
- how to start successful tourism projects in major Gulf cities
- how a man's experience abroad turned into a terrible nightmare
- how a man's travelling difficulty evolved into a good business project

10 Read the following from paragraph (6).

"Today, it is a thriving and flourishing multi-million-dollar group with branches in Dubai, Kuwait City, Cairo, Manama and Doha."

What does the underlined word "flourishing" MOST LIKELY mean?

- growing
- alarming
- attaching
- threatening

11

How did Tariq get the idea of starting the Happy Tourist Travel Agency?

- He was inspired by two colleagues at work in Oman.
- His experience led him to expand his business in France.
- His family thought it would be a great idea for future travellers.
- He hired two people to help his employees plan holidays abroad.

Smoking Prohibited in all Workplaces in Qatar

Since it came into effect two months ago, the No Smoking Policy in all workplaces in the State of Qatar has been widely praised. It has made life in workplaces healthier and better. In the same vein, it has also helped to cut down on precious time that workers and employees alike used to waste on smoking in the premises of their working places. This also means that productivity at workplaces is very likely to increase and smokers will be able to save more and more money for their families and their own welfare.
