READING

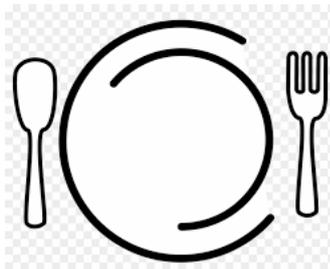

Read the passage and answer the questions.

(1) How much do you know about the history of some of your favourite foods? Do you know when people in England started cooking curry dishes? Do you know in which country pizzas or hamburgers were first made? The facts might surprise you.

(2) Many people think the English found out about curry from people in India in the 1600s. In reality, wealthy English people were eating dishes made with curry spices hundreds of years before British ships travelled to India. Cooks of wealthy English families during the time of King Richard I were making curry dishes, and in fact, the word “curry” can be found in an English language cookbook as far back as 1377.

(3) As for pizza, this dish was probably first made in Persia (what is now Iran). The Persians were eating round, flat bread with cheese in the 500s. That was nearly 1,000 years before pizza caught on in Naples, Italy! Finally, let’s look at the truth behind hamburgers. Many people think hamburgers are an American food. However, according to some stories, hamburgers came from Hamburg, Germany. A German named Otto Kuasw created the first hamburger in 1891. Four years later, German sailors introduced hamburgers to Americans.

(4) Where foods come from isn’t nearly as important as how they taste; as long as they are delicious! So, go get some

1. What is the text Mainly about?

- A. the history of first pizza
- B. the history of some foods
- C. dishes made of curry spices
- D. the truth behind hamburger

2. What is the CLOSEST MEANING to the underlined word "wealthy" in paragraph (2)?

- A. rich
- B. poor
- C. upset
- D. needy

3. According to paragraph (4) What is the writer's opinion about the important thing in food?

- A. taste
- B. recipe
- C. dryness
- D. ingredients

4. Who created the first hamburger?

5. Where is the first Pizza made?

6. When were wealthy English people eating dishes made with curry spices?

Read the passage and answer the questions.

Reading (2)

A Bug's Sleep

(1) Every mammal needs sleep, as do birds and reptiles, such as snakes. But what about insects? Do they need sleep? Scientists have been trying to discover the truth about insect sleep behaviour for years. Scientists first thought insects did not need sleep. According to them, the insect brain was not complex enough to need it. Scientists said that some kinds of brain activity, like dreaming, were sleep behaviours. Insects do not dream, so scientists said that they did not sleep. They believed that insects rested, instead.

(2) However, new studies have shown that some insects may actually sleep. There are four types of behaviour during sleep. First, sleeping people and animals don't move much. Also, they have a position for sleeping; for example, they lie down. Additionally, they don't wake up easily when hearing noises or seeing light. Lastly, they are able to come out of sleep quickly in response to some intense stimulant.

(3) Scientists have now seen similar behaviours in fruit flies. For example, fruit flies become still every night for about seven hours. At these times, they sit in a different way, let their antennae drop, and do not respond to quiet noises. The flies do begin to move around when louder noises are made. Scientists think that some insects may have their own different kind of sleep.

1. What is the text Mainly about?

- A. types of sleeping behavior
- B. every mammal needs sleep
- C. sleeping of people and animals
- D. some insects have their own sleep

2. What is the closest meaning to the underlined word “ still ” in paragraph (3)?

- A. busy
- B. sleep
- C. active
- D. angry

3. According to paragraph (3) What is the writer’s OPINION about the kind of some insects’ sleep?
