There are 17 different kinds of penguins in all and none of them can fly.
- 2) Penguins have to be able to survive in some of the Earth's coldest and windiest conditions. They are great swimmers and have thick layers of fat to protect them from the bitter cold. Even in their freezing cold habitats, penguins still have to watch out for predators such as killer whales and seals.
- 3) Penguins find all their food in the sea and are carnivores. They eat mostly fish and squid. They also eat crustaceans, such as crabs, shrimp, and krill. A large penguin can collect up to 30 fish in one dive. Penguins (and any animal) that eat only fish are called carnivorous.

READING

- Read the passage and answer the questions ...

Rocks and dust are the parts that land is made out of. A lot of rocks are under the dust. Rocks are hard things made out of one or more materials. These materials are found in nature.

The rock cycle has three parts. First, it shows how rocks are made. Second, it shows how they break into small pieces. Finally, it shows how they are made into other kinds of rocks.

Water, wind and growing plants cause change in shape of rocks. This change is the process that makes rocks break into smaller pieces. Water causes most of the change of rocks. Many rocks have small cracks that can let in water. The cracks get bigger if the water freezes and then melts again. The cracks finally get so big that the rock breaks into smaller pieces.

Small pieces of rock and dust build up in layers over long periods of time. The more layers there are, the heavier the rocks are. The top layers always push down on the lower layers. Pieces and layers normally come together to make rocks.
