Growing Deserts There are deserts all over the world. They can be found in Africa, China, South America, and North America. In some places, deserts are growing. This is a serious problem because deserts destroy farmland and ruin land where animals live. When people cannot grow food or find animals to eat, they have to leave their homes.

Sometimes, nature can cause deserts to spread. Wind can move sand away from deserts and onto useful land. When there is no rain for a long time, plants die and deserts grow. However, humans can also cause deserts to grow. This is called desertification, and it happens in many ways. One way is when people cause too much air pollution, which can make an area hotter. Hotter weather can reduce the amount of rain as well. Too many people in one area can also damage the land. In addition, having many animals can harm the land. When large animals like cows walk on soil too much, they turn it into dust. The wind easily blows this dust away. Trees help hold water in the ground. When people cut down too many trees, less water stays in the ground, and the soil is ruined.

All of these things can speed up desertification and this is harmful to the environment. To stop deserts from growing, people must think of ways to treat the land better.

John has always dreamt of going to Britain for my holidays, but he did not know anybody who could help him to arrange it. Fortunately, he managed to overcome this difficulty in getting an invitation from a student organization. However, he was more frightened than happy because he did not have any friends in England; nobody who could help him at least during the first days of his stay there. Therefore, he desperately began looking for some contacts and eventually succeeded in getting a few helpful addresses and telephone numbers. At last, the day of the departure he longed for so much came. He had his passport checked and quickly got on the plane. During the flight he was still worried about his future.

When the plane eventually landed in London, he found himself at a noisy and crowded airport. He had an impression that he was an unnecessary and unwelcomed guest. He went to see the Immigration Officer who asked him detailed questions about the purpose of his visit and the amount of money he was bringing. He had to show him his invitation and say how long he was going to stay in England. Finally, he stamped his passport and let him pass. John spent at least three hours in a departure lounge having no idea what to do. He felt lonely and desperate. He did not have enough money to stay in a hotel. Besides, He did not know the city and he was afraid of moving anywhere. It seemed to him that if he left the airport, he would be immediately lost, robbed or killed. What is more, he had a very heavy rucksack and that was another obstacle which prevented him from doing anything.

Having no specific plans, he dragged himself to the underground station. He decided to go to the Polish Cultural and Social Association in London and ask for some help. When at last he reached his destination and found the building he was looking for, he went and the first person he met was his teacher of English! What a lucky coincidence! he could not believe his eyes. As soon as he had told him about his problems, he gave John the telephone number of a Polish boy who was just looking someone to share a room with. He was happy beyond measure and from that moment he began to think that life was not so bad, and London was the most beautiful and exciting city in the world. He was not a stranger anymore.

1- What is the text mainly about?

- A. John's dream
- B. John's hometown
- C. John's friend
- D. John's adventures

2- What does the underlined word "obstacle" mean?

- A. Confidence
- B. danger
- C. difficulty
- D. happiness

(1) Do you wake up feeling fresh and alert in the morning or do you drag yourself out of bed most of the time? If you don't have at least eight hours of sleep each night, over time, your health will suffer.

(2) Missing an hour or two of sleep for a few days will have an effect on your concentration and performance. However, sleeping more than the recommended hours does not necessarily mean that you will do better or accomplish more. Rather, oversleeping is quite similar to overeating. It makes you feel lethargic and your concentration span becomes shorter too.

3) Having at least eight hours of sleep boosts our immunity. People who adopt a good night's sleep pattern generally have stronger immunity. For many, especially women, compromising on their beauty sleep is impossible. When you sleep, your body repairs and regenerates skin, blood and brain cells. Our skin glows and our hair shines when we have enough sleep. People who are deprived of sleep usually have dark rings under their eyes.

(4) When you are healthy, everything seems to fall into place. You are able to perform better. You feel less stressful and can absorb and retain information more accurately. Handling tasks is a breeze as you make fewer mistakes. More importantly, for people who drive, their reaction towards an emergency is faster. That in turn reduces accident rates. Overall, having enough sleep also makes you less short-tempered, aggressive, and paranoid

1. What is the text MAINLY about?

- A. the effects of lack sleep on human skin
- B. what happens to our bodies during sleep
- C. the benefits of good sleep on our daily life
- D. the difference between overeating and oversleeping.

2. What does the underlined word in the second paragraph “concentration” mean?

- A- attention
- B- convention
- C- movement
- D- reaction

3. What goes to your body when you sleep well?

4. Why is sleeping more than eight hours not recommended?
