Read aloud the simple sentences and then the complex sentences with the relative clauses.

Relative Pronouns: Who, That, Which

Relative clauses add information about a noun in the main clause.

Use the relative pronoun who or that for people.

Use the relative pronoun that or which for things and animals.

The waiter is serving the customers. He is friendly.

The waiter who/that is serving the customers is friendly. (relative clause)

My uncle works in a factory. The factory makes cars.

My uncle works in a factory that/which makes cars. (relative clause)

a relative clause (also called adjective clause) describes a noun that comes before it (in the main clause).

Relative clauses begin with that, who, or which.

☺ who is used with people (The waiter who is serving the customers is friendly.);

♥ which is used with things (My uncle works in a factory which makes cars);

☀ that can be used with people or things

Relative Pronouns

Relative pronouns

Who

Used for people

- The woman who called yesterday wants to buy the house.

Which

Used for things and animals

- Did you see the letter which came today?
- I love the puppy which is jumping at the kitchen.

Language Builder

All clauses contain a subject and a verb. Clauses are either independent (also called main clauses) or dependent (also called subordinate clauses). Independent clauses express a complete thought and can be written as a sentence. My uncle works in a factory is an independent clause. Adjective clauses are dependent clauses. They are part of a sentence, but they cannot be a sentence on their own. Which makes cars is a dependent clause.

Language Builder

That is generally used in restrictive relative clauses rather than which or who. Restrictive clauses are essential to the meaning of a sentence. (I ate at the restaurant that opened this weekend.) Restrictive clauses answer the question Which? (Which restaurant? The restaurant that opened this weekend.)
